A few words from the CEO

Hello and welcome to summer! We had a very quick transition from a cold, wet spring to a very warm early summer—I hope you're keeping cool.

Summer this year looks very different from summer last year. This year, we have been able to ease some restrictions and are seeing more people socializing in the community.

hope you're taking advantage of the additional programming Helen has scheduled, and are enjoying the company of your neighbors. Social engagement is a very important piece of living in a lively and thriving community as Bishop Spencer Place—whether it's a predinner cocktail in Vern's Pub, a sit-down dinner in the Canterbury Dining Room, a quick bite in the Bistro, or simply a walk around the beautiful grounds catching up with neighbors and friends. Studies have shown how important it is to continue to be engaged in social activities as we age, and I know the last year has been difficult for social engagement. It's time to get back out there—even if that means we have to iron our "fancy" clothes.

I love seeing the energy of our community and hope to see more and more of you out and about.

Yours in health,

Dee Dunn

Midwest Chamber Trio

Friday, July 23 | 4 p.m. | Bishop's Garden (weather permitting)

Join us in the garden for a classical concert! French hornist Steve Lewis, cellist Eman Chalshotori, and pianist John Livingston make up the Midwest Chamber Trio.

The trio plays classical music of all eras, including Beethoven and Brahms alongside newer, melodic and traditionally styled pieces by Philip Lasser and Jeffrey Parola.

Just a note to recognize our fellow garden aficionado who never gave up to Mother Nature. After several attempts to grow a special plant which represented his family's growing and flowering favorite— hooray!—Bill Buckner, our master herb garden leader, became the owner of a flowering Jack-in-the-pulpit. His photo is shown here.

This may be the pinnacle for a man specializing in herbs. "Jack" is also an herb! This one tops the list for alternative names. It has garnered at least the following: indian turnip, wild turnip, arum, three-leaved arum, dragon turnip, brown dragon, devil's ear, marsh turnip, swamp turnip, meadow turnip, bog onion, priest's pintle, and lords and ladies!

And here's a start on medical uses throughout the ages: asthma, rheumatism, bronchitis, whooping cough, sore eyes, and snake bites!

All Creatures Great and Small

Tuesdays, 1 p.m. | Ch 1851

We will continue to show the original PBS series of All Creatures Great and Small. We are watching Seasons 6 and 7.

This acclaimed series is based on the beloved books of James Alfred Wight, published under the pen name James Herriot.

In 1966, at the urging of his wife Joan, Herriot attempted to write a number of different books pertaining to football (soccer), but none received any interest from publishers.

In 1969, he turned his attention to writing about his life as a veterinarian. The next year, his semi-autobiographical book All Things Great and Small was published and became a success in both the U.K. and the U.S. He would go on to write six more books.

His works are mainly a collection of connected short stories that paint a picture of everyday life in England while using animals and veterinary care as a focal point.

Friday, July 30 | 2 p.m. | Channel 1851

We'll travel through eastern Europe with Rick.

Bulgaria: This country, so mysterious to most Americans, has a vivid identity as a crossroads of the Balkans. We'll trace the country's complex history, from ancient Thracian tombs to medieval Orthodox

Christian monasteries to Soviet monuments. And we'll enjoy an intimate taste of contemporary culture: the yellow brick road of Sofia; the gregarious craftspeople of the medieval capital, Veliko

Tarnovo; and the thriving pedestrian zones of cosmopolitan Plovdiv.

Prague: The capital of the Czech Republic is the best-preserved Baroque city in Central Europe. We experience its massive castle, beloved statue-lined bridge, historic nickname: the Golden City of a Hundred Spires.

Romania: We'll tour the vibrant capital, Bucharest, with its "Little Paris of the East" architecture and lingering reminders of a brutal communist dictator. Then we'll head into Transylvania, where we'll visit fortified churches, cobbled merchant towns like Sighişoara, and castles made famous by an imported German king and the real-life Dracula. Finally we'll explore Maramureş, where everyday life still feels like an open-air folk museum.

Play along with our Bingo card this month.

The Great Revolutions of Modern History Wednesdays, 3 p.m. | Ch 1851

In this course you will learn how the great revolutions of the past 300 years have profoundly shaped the landscape of the 21st century. These epic changes tore down established orders and built new ones in their place. What drives individuals and groups to embrace revolution? At what point does a society decide to revolt? Is there such a thing as a peaceful revolution? Why have some revolutions failed while others changed the world?

National Pecan Pie Day

Monday, July 5

lt's pretty easy to get behind a day dedicated to one of our favorite desserts. Indeed, 90% of Americans surveyed believe eating a slice of pie is one of life's simple pleasures. People who prefer pecan pie describe themselves as thoughtful and analytical. We're not sure if this holds true for those who add ice cream or whipped cream. Nonetheless, it's time to celebrate this dessert!

National Fried Chicken Day

Tuesday, July 6

American fried chicken is considered the best, but Americans weren't the first to do it. Europeans were already frying chickens back in the Middle Ages, but it was the Scottish immigrants to the U.S. who brought their tradition of deep-frying chicken in fat. Their preferred style used no seasoning, so their recipe was slightly bland. African slaves of the Scottish immigrants adopted the fried chicken recipe, often adding more spices as their own unique touch. This dish became a staple in many southern households when African slaves became cooks there.

One basis of this theory is from James Boswell's Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides. In 1773, he wrote about eating fricassee of fowl for dinner, served by the locals—"fried chicken or something like that."

The earliest known recipe for fried chicken was written by Hannah Glasse in the 18th century in her cookbook The Art of Cookery Made Plain and Easy. Her recipe was named "To Marinate Chickens," and its first publication was in 1747.

The history of fried chicken wouldn't be complete without mentioning the king of fried chicken, Colonel Harland David Sanders. After working a range of jobs, he came up with the idea of cooking fried chicken fast, using a blend of seasoning and a pressure cooker. When he first started selling the dish at his restaurant in Corbin, Kentucky, it wasn't an instant success. At the age of 65, he hit the road, selling his fried chicken under the name "Kentucky Fried Chicken." He adopted the title of colonel. By 1964, when he sold his company, there were 600 KFC franchises all over the country.

Fried chicken continues to spark the interest of food lovers and consumers. In 2019, Popeve's launched their fried chicken sandwich, which caused a huge sensation. The craze and hype for the chicken sandwich continue until the present, with an ongoing 'chicken war' between competing franchises.

National Amelia Earhart Day

Saturday, July 24

Each year on July 24th, National Amelia Earhart Day honors the achievements of the aviation pioneer on the date of her birth.

Author and American aviation pioneer Amelia Mary Earhart was born on July 24, 1897, in Atchison, Kansas.

Earhart took off from Grace Harbor, Newfoundland, four years to the day that Lindbergh completed his solo trans-Atlantic flight. Her goal was to land in Paris, France. The previous year, Ruth Nichols also attempted to fly solo across the Atlantic. Had she succeeded, she would have been the first woman to do so. However, Nichols' crashed while attempting to land for refueling in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia.

Due to many technical challenges Earhart faced in flight, she landed the red Lockheed Vega 14 hours and 16 minutes later in Derry, Ireland. All in all, the flight was a success. She became the first woman pilot to complete the journey. Following Earhart's record-setting accomplishment, she earned the United States Distinguished Flying Cross.

In 1937, Earhart attempted to circumnavigate the globe. Unfortunately, her Purdue-funded Lockheed Model 10 Electra disappeared over the Pacific Ocean near Howland Island in July.

Her successes continue to draw women around the globe to the world of aviation. Fascination with her life, career, and disappearance continues to this day.

THE PREMONITION: A PANDEMIC STORY

Michael Lewis

(A Poem

Touched by An Angel (1995)

We, unaccustomed to courage exiles from delight live coiled in shells of loneliness until love leaves its high holy temple and comes into our sight to liberate us into life.

Love arrives
and in its train come ecstasies
old memories of pleasure
ancient histories of pain.
Yet if we are bold,
love strikes away the chains of fear
from our souls.

We are weaned from our timidity
In the flush of love's light
we dare be brave
And suddenly we see that love costs all we are
and will ever be.
Yet it is only love
which sets us free.

Dear BSP community,

The steady hobbies through my life have been being musical, learning languages, and being active. While I haven't been drawn to art (pun not intended!) or poetry, there are still the gems or favorites that I return to and think of.

One poem that I return to and has recently come to mind is by Emily Dickinson (1830–1886).

Hope is the thing with feathers

That perches in the soul,

And sings the tune without the words,

And never stops at all,

And sweetest in the gale is heard;
And sore must be the storm
That could abash the little bird
That kept so many warm.

I've heard it in the chillest land,
And on the strangest sea;
Yet, never, in extremity,
It asked a crumb of me.

Blessings,
Chaplain Mark Jeske
